

history

's a dark place, and specters emerge and at each turn we can't tell whether we have seen before elders insist we must have always they want it their way.